

One day on the farm, there were two mice named Harry and Potter.

They were hungry and left the farm to hunt for food.

First, they saw a hen called Penny. She was pecking the ground.

Jack the cat, saw the mice too. “Run!” clucked Penny. The mice ran as fast as they could, but Jack the cat was catching up to them. “Help, help, help!” shouted Harry and Potter.

Po the dog heard their cries. He ran barking and growling. Jack was so scared that he ran up the nearest tree.

Po carried Harry and Potter on his back to their home on the farm.